BENSON & LAMBERT & PLAYER SPECIAL
Half man, half fish, young keeper Billy Thomson was set to sign for Fulchester United. But Gus Parker, the Grimthorpe City boss had other plans for Billy...

Meanwhile, at the Grimthorpe training camp, Gus Parker is planning a derby defeat for United.

What are we gonna do to the fish kid, boss?

Nothing! On Saturday Billy the Fish will line up for Fulchester!

But suddenly a figure emerges from the tunnel...

It looks like this new kid Thomson isn't gonna make it. Yeh.

Hey look, it's Billy the Fish!

This new fish keeper has made it after all.

Soon the game was underway...

Blast! I've been beaten. But he'll not get past Billy the Fish!

But, in the Fulchester goal...

Oh no! He's scored. That fish keeper didn't even move. Boo!

This new kid Thomson is a load of rubbish! Punt!

The big day arrived, and as kick-off approached, there was still no sign of the missing star...

The paper told the story... This has to be the work of our arch-rival, Gus Parker, manager of neighbouring Grimthorpe City.

Yeah, and it leaves us with little chance in Saturday's all-important derby.

The paper told the story... I know! It's the work of our arch-rival, Gus Parker, manager of neighbouring Grimthorpe City.

Have you read the paper, Tommy? The young fish kid has been kidnapped!

But it won't be the real Billy Thomson. It will be this inflatable replica!

So United will be playing with a balloon in goal - no match for our forwards. This way we can't lose!

The paper told the story... YEAH, AND IT LEAVES US WITH LITTLE CHANCE IN SATURDAY'S ALL-IMPORTANT DERBY!

Exactly! (Ha ha!)

And there's nothing our fish headed friend can do to stop us!

Will Grimthorpe run riot over United? Will the real Billy Thomson save the game, and his own reputation? Find out in the next episode of Billy the Fish!
‘I’M A SEXY HOT POT’

Tony's a real tasty dish

PICTURE SPECIAL

The ladies call me 'the Lancashire Hot Pot'. 'Cos I'm a really tasty dish.

BIG

Being sexy is a big bonus when you're playing snooker. My opponents are often distracted by how sexy I am. Snooker is a big money game, but money can't buy good looks, as all the other players know too well.

ATTRACTIVE

I mean, look at Big Bill Werbenuk. He isn't even remotely attractive. Alex 'Hurricane' Higgins is quite sexy, but not in the same league as me.

SHOT

I remember at one tournament I was playing Alex and he only needed one ball to win. At the time I was so sexy he couldn't concentrate. He missed the shot and I won. There were 3,000 girls in the audience that night - and I was sleeping with all of them.

DIET

A few years back I was so sexy it was affecting my cue action. And I was having difficulty walking. My doctor told me I was too sexy and put me on a diet. He also gave me some tablets but I remember being so sexy I couldn't swallow them.

I'm still sexy, and I'm getting sexier every day. On my way to a tournament recently I was so sexy my ear blew up, and people complained that I had been interfering with short wave radio signals. That's how sexy I am at times.

BIG

Being sexy is a big bonus when you're playing snooker. My opponents are often distracted by how sexy I am. Snooker is a big money game, but money can't buy good looks, as all the other players know too well.

GIRLS

When I eventually arrived at the venue there was so many girls waiting inside to see me, there wasn't room for a snooker table.

ME

Girls find me irresistible. The other night I was staying in an hotel. I took so many girls back to my room with me the floor collapsed.

PROPOSALS

Being so sexy I get a hell of a lot of fan mail. On an average day I get 500 proposals from would-be brides. And I usually get at least twice that amount.

DOGS

I have other hobbies as well as girls. I used to keep dogs, but I was so sexy I had to have them destroyed.

PROBLEM

I'm planning to write a book at the moment. It's going to be about how sexy I am. The only problem is I don't know where I'm going to find enough paper to write it on.

Heroes hit the big time

A fairytale year has ended in a major record deal for North East soul combo Legendary Heroes.

DEMO

Twelve months ago singer and guitarist Craig Lines was despondent after losing the band's only demo tape on a tube train in London. But two days later he got a phone call from Radio One DJ Peter Powell.

"I could hardly believe it", Craig told us. "Of all people, Peter Powell had found the tape on his way to work. He listened to it and decided to send it to a friend at EMI Records".

BLAH

A few days later Craig got a call from EMI offering the band a record deal worth £100,000.

"I went down to London to collect the money, and bumped into George Martin at the EMI offices", Craig continued. Martin, the former Beatles producer mistook Craig for David Bowie, and offered to produce the band's debut single for nothing.

BLAH

"We went into the studio that afternoon and recorded 'Chains Of Love', a cover of an old Drifters song".

The single is due for release later this year, however some copies are already available at a special price to readers of this comic.

SAVE TEN BOB

To obtain 50p off the normal retail price of the single, simply produce this comic at Volume Records in Newcastle. The offer applies to the first 50 applicants only.

Bosses at Newcastle's Kitchenware record label are rolling in money after the success of their recent record releases.

MILLION

"We didn't expect to do so well at first", label chief Keith Armstrong told us. Although reluctant to discuss finances Armstrong does not deny claims that he is earning in excess of £70,000 per month from record sales alone. And label co-founder Paul Lumdson would neither confirm nor deny that at 25 he has already entered the millionaire bracket.

WEALTH

"Obviously we're quite happy with the way things have been going", he admitted. But despite their reluctance to discuss cash, we found traces of enormous wealth at Kitchenware's Newcastle city centre offices.

CASH

Ten and twenty pound notes littered the floor, and bundles of cash were piled high in every corner. The door to an adjacent rehearsal room was blocked from the inside by what felt like large sacks of cash.

And the owner of a nearby boat shop told us how Armstrong and others had visited his shop three times in one afternoon - on each occasion paying for expensive yachts in cash. And workers in an office overlooking the Kitchenware headquarters spoke of twice daily deliveries of money to the offices by armoured security van.

LOLLY

Of the bands on the label Prefab Sprout have so far generated the most interest. Their recent single 'Don't Cry' narrowly missed the Top Forty, however their debut LP 'Swoon' looks set to make a much bigger impact on Kitchenware's already bulging coffers. Highly rated by Radio One's top D.J. David Kidd-Jensen, the album looks set to go platinum.

DOSH

New releases are also planned from The Kane Gang, The Daintees, Hurrah! and The Link Men.

Indeed, the future for bands in the North East hasn't looked so promising since the sixties when The Animals made regular visits to the Top Ten with unforgettable hits like 'Ferry Across The Mersey' and 'The Fog On The Tyne Is All Mine All Mine'.

Newcastle band 21 Strangers have hit a snag in their bid for hit parade superstardom. For none of the members of the band know who the others are.

ODD

Bassist Derek told us: "Our particular brand of body music, which is based on reggae, soul and funk, with a smattering of African rhythms can be pretty awkward to play when you don't know who the other musicians are".

UNUSUAL

Said guitarist Dave: "Our manager, who I think might be Chas Chandler won't let any of us meet each other. I'm not even sure how many others there are".

PECULIAR

It's a miracle their last single 'On Safari' ever came about, let alone became such a hit in the North East charts.

EXTRAORDINARY

Our investigations revealed that there are in fact only four members of the group, and Chas Chandler is in fact their manager. "I thought there were 21 of us!" said drummer Neil when we broke the news.

QUEER

When questioned Chas revealed that the band had been playing gigs in and around London, and working in the studio. "Now that the band are no longer strangers, we should be hearing a lot more from them in the future", he quipped. (A fair bet I'd say - Ed.)
One day Mr. Crazy Face was trying to plug himself into the mains...

A chicken tied to a brick crashed thru’ the window.

If you understand the plot so far…… get some help!

I’ve found that if you fill your sink up with milk and leave it for three weeks, you get a really nasty smell in th’kitchen!

What the……?

Hi! I’m a punk dog!
I just thought I’d let you know also……

I won’t be takin any further part in this story……

Story? Who’s he kiddin’?

And also if you don’t go to the toilet for months and months you get poos in your trousers, which also makes a foul stink!

Don’t look like a crown court judge, does he?

Later……

People say I’m half mental! But I never do things by halves!

I fear the worst!

They reckon that men are descended from us apes—— but I think this one’s dad was a bag of nails or a wet cardboard box or somethin’!

It’s lunchtime my little hairy pal!
What do you fancy?
A rabbit with jam on?
A black baby?
A dog’s dick?

I think I’ll just stick to bananas…. thank you……

Mr. Crazy Face & his funny monkey has been brought to you by the makers of Wazzo nerve balm
Which makes you feel like you’ve been drinking petrol—don’t touch it or you’ll wind up like me……

Shit the bed! Who’s hurling domestic fowl at this time in th’mornin’?!
I wish I’d never joined the youth training scheme!

Crikey! I’m off!

If you understand the plot so far…… get some help!

Shame! A brick! Perhaps I could put this to good use!

What about me, bum bag?

Let’s scoff the chicken boss!

I won’t be takin any further part in this story……

WE TALK TO THE SMITHS

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

The Smiths have certainly taken the pop world by storm in 1984.

LIVE

So when they played in Newcastle recently we took the opportunity to ask lead singer Morrissey how the band's unusual name came about. But he wouldn't talk to us.

ARREST

So we thought we'd turn the tables and ask some of the 2000 or so Smiths listed in the local telephone directory what they thought of their pop namesakes.

TULIP

When we called Mr J. Smith of Wallsend he told us he had never heard of the band, while Mr K.M. Smith of Blyth said he had heard them on the radio but preferred to listen to The Beatles.

DRUGS

Mrs P.B. Smith of Morpeth revealed that in recent weeks several people had dialed her number by mistake, and added that she wasn't prepared to discuss her musical tastes over the telephone.

TOPLESS

A spokesman for W.H. Smiths in Newcastle offered to put us through to their record department who told us that the bands album was available for £4.99, but refused to comment any further.

Several Smiths, including Mr H. Smith of Newburn, were not in when we called.

RIOT

With a sell out tour behind them, and the album flying high in the charts, 1984 certainly looks set to be The Smiths year.

COMPETITION

WIN A FAIRLY RARE SINGLE

Here's a chance to win a rare copy of The Smiths recent hit single 'What Difference Does It Make'. The sleeve features movie star Terence Stamp, and had to be withdrawn shortly before the record was a hit. The sleeve has been autographed by shopkeeper Mr D. Smith of Newcastle.

To win the prize, simply name the famous T.V. series which featured two cowboys who changed their names to Smith and Jones. Send your entries to our address on page three. The prize will be sent to the sender of the first correct entry.

People called Smith, their friends, relatives or employees, may not enter this competition. The judges decision is final.
WORD GAME

Can you think of 1000 words or more? Remember, each word must be of four letters or more, and can only be used once, e.g. apple. Send your list to 'Goal Of The Month', Match Of The Day, BBC TV, London W1A 4W.

END
As you probably know, the earliest examples of botany, like the Mary Rose, arrived in England by ship. Nowadays we look to botany to provide us with coffee, tea and many popular brands of cigarettes, which unlike money, grow on trees alongside fruit, nuts and chocolate. There are of course three main types of botany: Zoology: the botany of animals; Biology: the botany of things that grow on trees; and archeology: another kind of botany. We are all familiar with flowers like Tulip or Herb which grow in our gardens. But flowers, like the acorn soon grow into large trees. This complicated 'life cycle' (a botanical form of transport) has fascinated botanists for many years. The film 'Chandy' told how early botanist Sir David Attenborough developed his theory 'you are what you eat'. He discovered that cows eat flowers, which in turn eat vegetables. Man eats cows with vegetables, and so the 'food chain' continues. Latter day food chains include Liptons and Sainsburys.

Unlike animals which we see every day in the zoo, vegetables are a kind of underground fruit which live in the soil and drink water. As well as providing us with mineral drinks like pepsi and cresta, we rely on vegetables for butter, margarine and even cosmetic products (a kind of space food).

Nowadays, despite the advent of takeaway food and battery operated agriculture, botany remains a popular leisure activity. Small flowers, together with useful information about trees can be obtained from larger branches of the Post Office.
